

Michael Pinter

After spending ten years working in media, I've returned to an early creative interest in software development, and I'm very excited to bring my passion for innovation, gift for problem solving and advanced communication skills to the tech industry.

PROJECTS

Get Together — gogettogether.herokuapp.com

This final project at Dev Bootcamp represents the culmination of my learning and my expertise at designing and executing a complex web app. As part of a small team, I constructed the Rails back end and created database associations for storing and accessing data, assisted in coding necessary RESTful routes, coded front end jQuery for an auto-complete feature as well as a great deal of the HTML and CSS and incorporated a facebook login feature. In brief, our site allows users to register through facebook, create a local event and see other events in their area which pop up on a google map.
